We note that the parcels identified above (WSMT 34-42) are presently under lease. However, none of these leases are currently held by production and the primary terms of these existing leases will all expire between June 2015 and October 2015. In the event that production is not achieved prior to lease expiration and/or the leases are not otherwise extended beyond their primary terms, we ask that these parcels be included in the February 2016 Notice of Competitive Lease Sale ("NCLS").

The parcels identified above will all be legally available for leasing when the existing lease primary terms expire. The United States owns all of the minerals underlying these parcels, all are Public Domain lands, and the BLM is the surface management agency. Further, none of the minerals underlying the parcels have been withdrawn from mineral leasing, and none of the lands are within incorporated cities, towns or Indian Reservations or have patented mining claims or pending mineral entry applications. As such, and assuming all existing leases expire at the end of their primary terms, all parcels identified herein will be legally available for leasing at the time of February 2016 Canyon Country sale.

As with parcels WSMT 1-33, all of the parcels identified herein are "open" for oil and gas leasing under the Monticello Field Office Resource Management Plan. These parcels are either

"open" with standard stipulations or controlled surface use/timing stipulations. None of the parcels identified herein contain no surface occupancy stipulations.

We ask that you please include the above identified parcels in the NCLS for the February 2016 Canyon Country oil and gas lease sale and accompanying NEPA analysis.

If you have any questions, please do not hesitate to contact me.

Sincerely,
